

纳米生态系统 中国

纳米生态系统 中国

Project matching event held in Nanopolis Suzhou

2017-07-18

Nanopolis Suzhou Co Ltd and TBV, a Singaporean company, jointly held a project matching event in Nanopolis Suzhou on July 14, in an effort to look for partners for a number of science and technology projects. More than 20 local enterprises and investors participated.

Nanopolis Suzhou Co Ltd and TBV, a Singaporean company, jointly held a project matching event in Nanopolis Suzhou on July 14, in an effort to look for partners for a number of science and technology projects. More than 20 local enterprises and investors participated.

Seven projects were presented at the event, including those about shape memory materials that can be used to treat malignant tumor embolism, container-based water cleaning system, smart pets, smart thermal management system for batteries, smart energy-saving central ventilation system, nano-copper conductive ink as well as smart energy-saving indoor air quality monitoring and cleaning system.

The participants showed great interest in the innovative technologies and looked forward to cooperation with the project developers.